BREAKING QUARANTINE. Mr Arthur, third magistrate at Singa-breaking quarantine which came before eight Chinese firemen from the steamer. Chow Tai, who, in the words of the charge, had landed from a ship suspected of containing plague, without the permission of the Port Health Officer. The evidence was to the effect that the Chow Tai, on her arrival from the China coast, was quarantined on suspicion of having plague on board. While held up, eleven of her firemen came ashere by stealth. Sub-Inspector Kim Swee arrested eight of them, the prisoners, in a house in Sago Street. The prisoners pleaded in mitigation that they had been ill-treated by one of the engineers.

Three of them showed scars which they said they had received in being pushed against the hot boilers by an engineer.

His worship, through the interpreter, impressed the accused with the serious nature of their offence and imposed a fine of $100 on each, the alternative being three months' rigorous imprisonment. Australia's Postmaster-General has sottled the deign of the "long-delayed Commonwealth postage stamp. The main feature of the new stamp is a map of Australia. This is in white on a background of fine coloured lines running horizontally across the stamp. There is no lettering on the map, but the bareness of the continent is relieved by the figure of a leangarou on a plot of graser, At the top of a stamp is the word "Anstralia," and the denomiation of the stancp is, set out along the hottom. The value is shown in figures in the body of the stamp. This design will be common throughout all values of the new issue, coloured green for the halfpennies, red for the pennies, and blue for the twopennies.

CHANGES IN THE SAPPERS

The Curps of Royal Engineers, says the "Military Mail," has, without doubt, experienced a greater number of changes of recent years than any three, or four other corps in the British Army, and the state of flux in which these changes has kept the Corps still continues. This week has wit passed another change, brought about by the absorption of the Air Battalion into the Royal Flying Corps, and I hear that in the very near future the establishment of the Corps is to be still further reduced by the abolition of the Searchlight Company at AGENTS: Aldershot. It is but natural that the "Scientific Corps," as the Sappers term themselves with justifiable pride, should be the lirst to feel the effects of the march of progress. Modern science has reached a stage when the wonders of discovery and invention seem to become quite commonplace, and the application of the latest scientific discovery to military need attracts only a passing interest. But each new idea seems to have more or less effect on the Corps of Royal Engineers.

Of late years we have seen the bsorption of the old Bridging Battalion into the Field Companies, re-organisation idea that has resulted in adding greatly to the general utility of the Corps, The Mechanical Transport Branch had a very short life, being transferred wholly to the Army Service Corps, where it has flourished and grown beyond all recognition. The introduction of wireless telegraphy was Telegraph Company, whose efforts have expanded in a direction and assumed an importance quito unforseen. Then came the development of the Air Battalion from the old Balloon Company, and this branch has now become a factor of the highest importance in our scheme of military efficiency, so important that the branch has been lopped from the parent body, and become an independent organisation under the direct contr 1 of the War Office.

The establishment of the 1st Searchlight Company was the outcome of the war in South Africa, where the use of the sea chight in the defence of Ladysmith and Kimberley was no doubt of the greatess value. Experiments for adapting the lights for use with a mobile army were carried out for several years, with the result that a remarkably efficient s rice of large and small portable lights was established which could be atilised in attack and defence, but principally the latter. Having reached this point of efficiency theauthorities have come to the conclusion that the possibilities of this particular form of field service are too limited to warrant the retention of the Searchlight Company as an established unit, so it' is to be abolished, the noncommissioned officers and men absorbed into Coast Battalions, and the apparatus stored for use as occasion demands.

FUTURE OF THE SIGNALLERS. The whole system of signalling and communication in the field has undergone a complete change quite recently, and the ON VIEW NOW AT THE Royal Engineers have become , wholly responsible for this service, from the instructional work at the Army School of Signaling to the training of the various branches of communication service. The Signal Companies have taken the place of the Airline and Cable Companies, and as time goes on the whole of the Intelligence Service of the British Army will, we hear, in authoritive circles, gradually devolve upon this branch of the Royal Ergineers. When that comes at out they, too, will feare the parent Corps to form the Communication Service of the Army, in which the Acrial Service will form part. Thus through constant change and progress the part being played and to be played by the Corps of Royal Engineers is of the very highest character, and the possibilities before all ranks are very great. The part to be played by the members of 779 the Wireless Company in the great scheme of linking up the whole of the British Empirs could hardly have been dreamt of a few months ago. Now they are to fill's very important role in this great scheme, the charge and maintenance of the series of powerful stations in the wireless links beplaced in their hands. These links will be BILLARD Malta, Aden, India, the Straits Settlements, and Australia (travelling East), and the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of Canada (travelling West). Each of these great stations will have a chain of smaller stations spreading fan-wise from them, as connecting up every part of the Empire with England, independent of submarine cables. An overland chain of wireless stations will be a task of some magnitude, MILNERS' but not beyond the capabilities of the ubiquitous Sapper, who seems equally at home with spade, theodolite, seroplane, buzzer, pontoon, are light, and telegraph, or on the footplate.

HOLES IN THE AIR.

Aeronauts have adopted the picturesque phrase "holes in the air" to describe that condition of the atmosphere that makes uniform horizontal flight impossible, and anses great danger to the aviator. Among the atmospheric conditions that may cause a greater or less doop of the eroplane," mys Science, are (a) horizonti strate moving with different velocities, (b) columns of air with different vertical compopents. The boundry between such strata and columns is blim quite matrow, and hence the aviator may pass with disconcerting spruptness from one to the other other. On cartain conditions the downward acceleration may be even in excess of thes due to gravitation, and then the avatte is thrown out of his seek.

KWANCTUNG NEWS.

(Bu Our"Own Correspondent) THE SHOOTING AFFAIR IN CANTON. There seems to be a considerable amount of confusion in the reports that have been published as to the cause of the shooting that took place in Canton last Friday evening. One thing seems tobe evident, viz., that several lives were sacrificed, and there seems as yet to have been "no adequate explanation of the of so many lives was the result of the unfortunate episode forthcoming. The ediet of the military official reads as follows :- " On the evening of the four- rifle-and a plentiful supply of cartfridges, teenth of the month, about eight o'clocks ran anisk, firing hither and thither as he in the evening two villains seem to have liked. He seems to have rushed through lost their senses and gone mad. In the several streets in the near vicinity of Western Suburbs, in the Tseung Lan, the Shameen, for the statement before and Cheung Lok Streets, they rushed me says that there were men found in about, armed with rifles, and shot into four streets who had been killed. It is the crowd. Indeed, as the crowd-was place said that another accident happened. dense, and as they shot lither and When the firing was heard some of the thither, they killed and wounded a lot soldiers, whose duty it is to guardethe of persons. The tragedy passes one's Shameen, went into the city to ascertain usual experience, and is greatly to, be what was transpiring, and seeing a body deplored. The military succeeded in of soldiers rushing along a street, and shooting one of the secondrels, and hearing the enable of a rifle, or rifles, arresting the other. China, Mongolia, and North Mancharia. In extra-mural China and Mongolia they are based, in addition to the geographical situation of these provinces, upon the St. Petersburg Treaty of 1881, which grants to Russian trade and to Russian subjects resident there rights entirely separate from the general rights of foreigners in China, As regards North Manchuria, our position there is connected with beam. the fact of the construction by as of Most refresting and palatable, the Chinese Eastern Railway. Our rights in North Manchuria rest upon special Russo-Chinese treaties; they have been created exclusively by Russian energy and Russian money Consequently the protection of our position in that province cannot be the common business of ourselves and other Powers which are not identically interested with us in this problem which is alien to them. The measures that are indispensable for "its realization we must take independently.

Dealing with Mongolia specially, Sazonoff said:

"One of the results of the disorders which have broken out in inner China was the secession from her of Mongolia, or rather of its northen portion, the so-called Khalkha. Having declared their independence the Mongolians appealed to Russia with a petition for support. Public opinion and the press with great heat discussed and are discussing the position which we ought to take in this question; on the one hand it is pointed out that Russia must take Mongolia under her protection; on the other it has been said that any share we may take in the fate of Mongolia will be an adventure, that China will easily | deceased had been bitten by a dog some settle with an independent Mongolia and that it will be left for us either to have an entire series of difficulties with the Chinese over a business that has nothing to do with us, or to remain spectators of such settlement and accept moral responsibility there-

WHAT IS A TRADE MARK? Interesting Case To-day.

At the Magistracy this afternoon the case was continued in which the Wo Lee firm, of 33 Yee Wo Street, summoned the Lam Fat Shing firm," of 443 and 443 Shanghai Road, Yaumati, for falsely applying to linen and homp goods trade marks, or marks so nearly resembling the complainants' trade marks, as to be calculated to deceive; they were also summoned for exposing goods so marked for sale.

Mr Potter, instructed by Mr Otto Kong Sing, appeared for complainant, and Mr ing. Brutton for defendant.

Mr Fletcher gave evidence and produced the trade mark registered by plaintiff. They distinguished a number of goods of the plaintiff firm.

Mr Potter submitted that the essential part of another firm's trade mark could not be taken and put in dissimilar surroundings. This was not only good law, but commonsense, otherwise any trader could evade the Trade Marks Ordinance. If his Worship (Mr Melbourne) decided otherwise it would be defeating the whole The applying a false trade description. He sub- lay was cheering and the

that the trade mark of complainants had been used by defendants. Only one character which formed a portion of a mark had been used in four different marks. He had evidence that these characters had been used for fifty years. The complainants were asking his Worship to say that a component part of a trade Taftites and 510 for the Roose-mark was the whole mark. It was a veltians. criminal charge, and the onus of proof was on complainants, who had established nothing beyond the fact that one character from the trade mark had been used. No evidence of deceit had been given Mr Potter submitted that if Mr Bruttou's argument, were correct any trader could take the essential part of any trade mark and putting it in different surroundings, apply it to his own goods without coming within the criminal law. No intent to defmud, it had been held, was necessary. the use of the mark being sufficient to constitute a criminal offence. Defendants given to the elected deputies to purge applied for the registration of a trade mark, but plaintiffs opposed it on the ground that they were already using one containing these characters, and they satisfied Mr. Fletcher, who refused defendants application that they were solely entitled to the action of the Convention, it is said, use of the four characters in question.

RINGWORM ON CHILD

Face and Head Affected 12 Months. Improvement After First Uses of Cuticura Scap and Ointment: Soon Trouble Disappeared. Also Cured Grandmother of Bad Ulcer.

cura Soap and Ointment. My little girl had ringworm very badly on the head and face for quite twelve months. I tried all kinds of remedies but fact, she was losing her hair through it. I was afraid she was going bald, and I got quite disheariened until one day I met a friend who had just cured her little girl with the Cuticura Remedies; and she advised me to try them. With the first application I could see an improvement. In a few weeks, the ringworm had disappeared, and the hair which had previously fallen on her head was growing fast, many thanks to Cuticura Soap and Ointment. My little girl will now bear inspection by anyone. She has a splendid skin and a lovely head of hair. "My mother had a bad ulcerion her ankle, and it is quite cured with Cuticura Ointment and Soap. I would not be without the Cuticura Remedies, and the Soap is so refreshing and cooling in the bath. It is worth two tablets of ordinary soap for cleansing purposes. I have recommended the Cuticura Remedies to all my friends with equally good results." The following notice is issued from the Hongkong Observatory:

On the 20th at noon. -The depression between Shanghai and Wei-Bai-Wei appears to be filling up. A depression still lies over S. W. China.

A depression which formed yesterday afromoon over the S. Loochoos has travelled northeastward and is now central over

Moderate S. W. or variable winds may be expected along the coast and moderate to fresh S. W. winds over the China Sea, Hongkong rainfall for the 24 hours end-ing at 10 a.m. to-day, 0.02 inches. Forecast for the 24 hours ending at noon

1. Hongkong and Neighbourhood; S. W. winds, moderate; squally, fair to 2.-- Formosa Channel: Strong S. W. winds, moderating. kong and Lamocks: Same as No. 1.

4.—South coast of China between Hong-kong and Hainan: Same as No. 1.

Hongkong Tides. The tide table given below has been compiled at the Nautical Almanac Office in London from the result of the analysis of observations taken by means of an attempt to Police Basin at Trim Sha Tsui during the years 1887-8-9 The zero of the table corresponds with the zero of the soundings in the Admiralty Charts which has been found to be a feet

Sinches below mean sea level.

To obtain the depth of water on the tide gauge at the Victoria Naval Yard add 2 feet 4 inches, and on the gauge at Lamout Dick, Aberdeen, add 10 feet 6 inches the height given in the table.
